BIOGRAPHICAL AND CHRONOLOGICAL

"One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh :
but the earth abideth forever." Eccl. 1:4.

History and biography we have known from the earliest dates. We have national history, both ancient and modern. These are usually written by persons who have gained the distinction of historians. But family history is often written by some member of the family. Family history is generally of a biographical nature, inasmuch as it is usually made up of the social and religious standing and character of individuals, and is chronological so far as the order of events is concerned.

History, of whatever kind it may be, to be interesting and useful, should be accurate both in detail and chronological order. This requirement has made this history all the more difficult to prepare.

One hundred and fifty-eight years, the period covered by this history, is a long time. And reaching back, as it does, into the primeval period of Western Pennsylvania, we are sure it abounds with deeds of daring which would add pith to this narrative. But our ancestors were too busy making history to take time to write it, and duly authenticated details have been hard to secure.

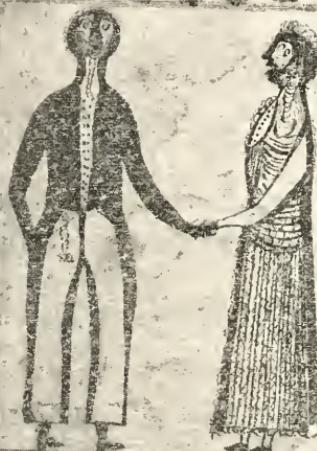

So far as we know this is the first attempt to gather up the scattered fragments of the records of the Stewart family and tabulate them in form for the use of future generations. And our information, coming as it has from such varied sources, we have endeavored to classify and arrange in such a way as to be easily understood.

We accord all due credit to the many friends who have rendered valuable assistance. All have our sincere thanks. This little history is submitted to the reader with a full consciousness that it is by no means replete with that pithiness which is essential to dispel the monotony of a multiplication of names and dates.

And in years to come may some one write,
The names of others now unborn,
And add to this History pages bright,
And each milestone of the Stewarts adorn.

History of the Stewart Family

JOHN STEWART, a covenanter, fled from Scotland to near Belfast, Ireland, in 1665 to 1685, on account of religious persecution. He died in 1720. His son,

ROBERT STEWART, was born near Glasgow in 1665 and died in Drumoresprop, County Down, Ireland, in 1730. He moved to Ireland at the time of his father's death. He had a large family. His son,

SAMUEL STEWART, was born near Glasgow in 1698. He was a man of large stature, 6 feet tall, Roman nose, gray eyes, brown hair, and ruddy complexion. He married Mary McClay, who was noted for her dark complexion and large person. They came to America in 1735, and he died in Dauphin County, Pa., in 1770. They in turn had a large family. Their first son, JOHN STEWART, was born in Ireland; came to America and on May 25, 1776, he enlisted under Capt. James Grier; Co.—, 1st Pennsylvania Regiment. He was killed at the battle of Germantown April 19, 1777.

(Note—Hugh Stewart, a brother of John, was the eighth son of the above couple, and represents another family of Stewarts that came from Carlisle in 1794 or 95 and settled in the Northeastern corner of Findlay Township. He was the great-grandfather of the writer of this history. See biography of John Edward Stewart.)

This brings us down to the most ancient family record which we have been able to find as relates to the STEWART FAMILY OF WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA. It is contained in a little book of ten leaves, written on linen parchment. On the opposite page is a reproduction of its cover page. We have no knowledge of the writer, nor when it was written. But it indicates having been written with a quill; and the penmanship is of such a character as would set at naught the writing of most business men of the present day. From it we learn that the pioneer father was

who was born April 25, 1754, a son of JOHN and JANET STEWART. His father died (was killed) April 19, 1777, and his mother died November 1797. James Stewart was married August 25, 1779, to

MARGARET McCOWAN

(Note—We use McCowan, as we find it in this family record ; but from some unknown cause, in later years, their name was changed to McEwing.)

She was born February 19, 1759, a daughter of John and Eleanor McCowan. Her father died April 1789, and her mother July 5, 1816. These ancestors were Scotch-Irish. The record reads: "Removed from Dauphin County to Washington County, Pennsylvania." No specific date of their removal is given, but tradition says they had two children at the time; consequently it must have been about 1783.

They located on land bordering on Potato Garden Run. It was known as the "Leeom" tract, and adjoining the "Hopewell" tract, which later became the property of the Burnses. The title from the Commonwealth for this tract bears date December 31, 1774, and contained 400 acres. But it is asserted by some, that he at one time owned 800 acres located on both sides of Potato Garden Run; and later sold 400 acres located on the west side of the run, for the same price he paid for it, which was one dollar per acre. But when we compare this price with that paid for other lands, we must conclude that this transaction occurred a good many years after they settled here. Be that as it may, their first cabin was located on the farm now owned by George Miller, commonly known as the Thomas Stewart farm. Their nearest neighbors lived some two miles distant.

"Heaven gives us friends to bless the present scene." (Young.)

This farm being located in Findlay Township, Allegheny County, leads to some confusion as to their locating in Washington County. But Allegheny County had not yet been formed when they came to this section. By Act of Assembly passed September 24, 1788, being some five years after their arrival here, Allegheny County was taken from Westmoreland County. And by another Act passed September 17, 1789, the boundaries of this county were enlarged by the annexation of a large tract from the northern part of Washington County.

From the best evidence obtainable it would seem that James Stewart came to this section, made his location, and built his cabin soon after procuring the land. A comparison of dates shows that something like nine years elapsed between the date of his title (1774) and the time he moved his family here, (1783). Some have wondered at this delay in coming. But we are constrained to believe that the fearful depredations of the Indians had much to do with this delay; and by the time they came these hostilities had to some extent abated. But in better answer to this it might be well to take a glance at the conditions as they then existed in Western Pennsylvania. Near the close of 1781 the independence of the United States had been sealed. The winter of 1782-83 had been spent in comparative quiet by the settlement; the Indians being convinced by this time that the cause of the British, who had instigated and supported them, was hopelessly lost. And the conclusion of the war with Great Britain gave new impulse to the settlements, and weakened the confidence of the Indians, and a new era may be said to have dawned upon Western Pennsylvania, so long accustomed to the alarms of war. But, notwithstanding this, the Indians were still loath to permit their vast hunting grounds to become the farms of their enemies, and they continued to pay them unfriendly visits, sparing neither age nor sex, while the torch laid waste the rude homes of the frontiersmen. From this brief statement we can get but a slight glimpse of the hardships which confronted the "initial subjects" of this history.

We have no positive date as to their method of transportation; but tradition hands down the statement that some of their newly made neighbors remarked, "They mau be risch, they come in a wauggon." And again it is said that on their arrival there was no door in the cabin, and they lived in their wagon until an opening was sawed in the logs, and a door placed in the opening.

The most common method of transportation at that age in this part of the State was by pack horses; and not until 1789 was the first load of merchandise brought over the mountains by wagon. The wagoner was John Hayden, who drove four horses and was nearly a month in making the trip. But it is quite possible that some of the emigrants used the wagon before any attempt was made to transport merchandise.

After the family were installed in their new home, the father began clearing the land, and in due time corn and potatoes were planted; and later wheat was sown; but when the crop had grown and was reduced to flour and made into cakes it proved to be unfit for use, and they dubbed it "sick wheat" because after eating of its product, not only the family, but even the dog became sick. Some have claimed that the nature and condition of the soil had much to do with this unnatural quality of the crop. For a time the greater part of their supplies had to be brought from east of the mountains; and not infrequently they had to resort to herbs and wild fruits for subsistence.

On one occasion the father returned East for supplies and was detained longer than was expected. The scant supplies of the home became exhausted to the extent that the mother was obliged to "beat the sack" to secure sufficient flour to appease the hunger of the children. Our sons and daughters of the first part of the Twentieth Century will, no doubt, be struck with amazement from a statement of this kind. The sacks used in those days were made of tow. Their dimensions were sufficient to hold at least three bushels of grain, and their texture was such as would retain considerable quantities of flour after being emptied. By "beating the sack," as the saying went, of this kind sometimes quite a quantity of flour was secured.

Soon after they had settled in their humble home it so happened that the father was absent at milking time. The forest was their only pasture, and the cows, being supplied with bells, were at large in the great forest. The mother left her two children in the cabin and proceeded to hunt the cows. The luring toll of the bells led her on and on through the forest and finally she located them at or near where Hopewell church afterward stood, possibly three miles distant from their cabin. Think of the mother's solicitude for her children, left in a cabin not oversecure against the depredations of the wild animals with which the forests were infested at that time.

"In desert wilds, in midnight gloom,
In grateful joy, in trying pain,
In laughing youth, or nigh the tomb,
Ah! when is prayer unheard, or vain?"

On December 31, 1784, James Stewart secured a warrant for another tract of land. The patent for this is still in existence, and in an excellent state of preservation. It is written on sheepskin parchment, and the penmanship is of a high order. It was issued from "The Supreme Executive Council of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania;" and dated June 7, 1786, the tenth year of the Commonwealth. It conveys "a tract of land called "Juan" located on Montour's Run, Robeson Township, Washington County," "containing Four Hundred Acres, and six percent allowance for roads." The consideration was One Pound, Five Shillings, and six pence. It was signed by Hon. Charles Biddle, Vice President of Supreme Executive Council, and bears the seal of the State of Pennsylvania; and is recorded in Patent Book No. 4, page 533.

The farms of A. J. Purdy, Joseph McNall heirs, and Isaac Meanor heirs are parts of the "Juan" tract of land. This pioneer couple being Scotch-Irish, were naturally allied to the Presbyterian faith. Churches were few and far between in those days. From the best authority obtainable they were members at Raccoon. From the history of that congregation we learn that he, among a number of others, signed a call for the Rev. Joseph Patterson, the first stated pastor the congregation ever had. This call was dated April 9, 1789, and was made in conjunction with Montours Church. But during this pastorate of more than 27 years there is no record of the officers or members of this congregation. However, it is asserted on good authority that James Stewart was a member of session. The last resting place of this pioneer couple is in the cemetery at Raccoon. We have no positive proof as to the time of their deaths, but those most intimate with them assert that he died in 1826 and his wife in 1844. The stones that mark their graves, being sand-stones, have crumbled, and the names and dates have become obliterated.

"Rather rejoice because your names are written in heaven." Luke 10:20.

James Stewart and Margaret (McCowan) Stewart were the parents of eleven children: John, Jane, Eleanor, James, Margaret, Mary, Anne, Joseph P., Richard, Thomas M., and Sarah.

JOHN STEWART

the eldest son of this couple, was born June 4, 1780, and, as we believe, his birth place was Dauphin County. It is plain enough he was named for his grandfather. He was married March 15, 1808, to Elizabeth Glass. We have no history of her early life. After their marriage they lived on part of the "Juan" tract previously referred to. Like their parents they were well schooled in frontier life. When he went out to plow his wife frequently went with him and carried the gun, in fear of being surprised by the Indians. They were Presbyterians and were admitted to the Valley Church on certificate in 1840, presumably from Raccoon congregation. To this union were born James, Robert, Margaret, Jane Hillis, John M.,

ELIZABETH (GLASS) STEWART

and Elizabeth. John Stewart, the father, died January 9, 1843. Elizabeth (Glass) Stewart died October 19, 1869. Her picture appears on the preceding page.

JAMES STEWART

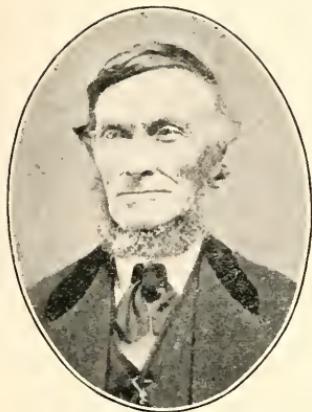

the eldest member of this family, was born February 11, 1809. He was married October 1840 to Rachel P. Cherry of Cherry Valley, Washington County, Pa. They located on the eastern end of the "Juan" tract where they spent the remainder of their days. They were life-long Presbyterians, and were admitted to the Valley Church in 1840. He was elected a ruling elder early in life and served in that capacity until his death, which occurred October 10, 1882. His wife Rachel P. died December 13, 1882. To this union were born six children: John Edward, Sarah Jane, Elizabeth Amanda, Matthew Rankin, Margaret Ellen, and Martha Ann.

JOHN EDWARD STEWART

was born April 5, 1842. On August 10, 1871, he was married to Jennie M. Stewart. For some years they followed farming in Cherry Valley, Washington County. About 1880 they moved to Washington, Pa., where his widow still lives, he having died March 8, 1910, leaving no children. The following is quoted from an item in the Presbyterian Banner: "Mr. Stewart was a good citizen and served the county in several important offices. In politics he was a Democrat, but was elected to office in Republican strongholds. In religion he was a Presbyterian and a member of the Third Church of Washington from the time of its organization, in which he was highly esteemed, and held the offices of treasurer and financial secretary for a period of ten years. He was a man of quiet habits and disposition, strong convictions, and decidedly loyal to the church. In his decease the State has lost a good citizen, the church a faithful and loyal member, and the widow an affectionate husband."

With the mention of his wife we have introduced to the reader another family of Stewarts. It will be noted that John Edward Stewart married a lady of his own name. The question has often been asked what relation, if any, existed between these two families? She was a daughter of Joseph Stewart of Findlay Township, Allegheny County. Her grandfather was Samuel Stewart, who came from Carlisle, Cumberland County, Pa., about 1794 or 95. He was a full cousin of James Stewart, the initial character of this history. And Hugh Stewart, the father of Samuel, and John the father of James, were brothers.

(Note. John Stewart was the first; and Hugh Stewart was the eighth son of Samuel Stewart, the man of large stature referred to on page one.)

JAMES STEWART

Whose biography, with that of his wife Rachel Cherry Stewart, appears on the preceding page.

RACHEL CHERRY STEWART

SARAH JANE STEWART

was born April 12, 1844. She received her education at the public school nearby and at a select school in Clinton. On November 23, 1871, she married Samuel Aten of Nevada, Ohio. Soon after they moved to their farm in Wyandotte County, Ohio, where they still live. To them have been born four children: Lyman Sobeiski, born September 12, 1872; Franklin Stewart, born June 18, 1874; James Samuel, born December 12, 1876, and Myrtle Edith, born February 6, 1880. These children are all single except Franklin Stewart. He was married March 11, 1902, to Edith Lee of Marion, Ohio, who was born April 7, 1880. To this union have been born: Samuel Lee, May 6, 1905; Esther Elizabeth, October 22, 1908, and Charlotte Luella, August 13, 1912,

ELIZABETH AMANDA STEWART

was born November 10, 1848. She was married November 8, 1888, to George W. Jardine. They own a farm located on Potato Garden Run, which presumably is a part of the original tract of 800 acres taken up by Mrs. Jardine's great-grandfather. In the same connection they have a store, and Mr. Jardine has been in the mercantile business for a number of years. Before the introduction of free delivery of mail it was known as Virsoix Post-office, and is still known by that name. They are Presbyterians and members of the Valley Church. They have no children.

MATTHEW RANKIN STEWART

was born December 16, 1852. He owned and operated the old Stewart farm, after the death of his father until his own death which occurred December 14, 1899, in Albuquerque, New Mexico, where he had gone in search of health.

MARGARET ELLEN STEWART

was born June 3, 1855, and died December 5, 1873, being seventeen years of age.

"Lessons so dear, so fraught with holy truth
As those her mother's faith shed on her youth;
And like some low and mournful spell
To whisper but one word—farewell."

MARTHA ANN STEWART

was born May 17, 1858. On November 27, 1895, she married A. J. Purdy, a resident of Findlay township. To this union were born Melva Margaret November 27, 1897; Rachel Evelyn May 11, 1901, and James Stewart April 7, 1904. They live on a part of the original "Juan" tract of land where Mrs. Purdy's father, grandfather, and great-grandfather lived, now known as "Silver Lake Farm," located on the Imperial and Clinton macadam road, where they are engaged in dairying and general farming.

The picture opposite represents the house built by her grandfather. It was remodeled in 1898, and an addition put to it, but it embodies the original log house built years ago.

ROBERT STEWART

the second son of John and Elizabeth (Glass) Stewart, was born August 17, 1811, and died in youth.

"As for man, his days are as the grass: as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth. For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone, and the place thereof shall know it no more." Ps. 103:15.

MARGARET STEWART

the eldest daughter of this same couple, was born May 31, 1814. She was married February 20, 1834, to John Smiley, a resident of Allegheny County. He was a farmer, tanner, saddle and harness maker. The couple resided for a time in Allegheny County. Then Mr. Smiley bought a farm in Hancock County, West Virginia, where they resided for several years; afterward moving into Hookstown, Pa. In the fall of 1875 they moved to Burgettstown where they celebrated their golden wedding February 20, 1884. Mr. Smiley died July 10, 1886, and Mrs. Smiley died February 20, 1898, on the 64th anniversary of her marriage. This couple were members of the United Presbyterian Church. While living in West Virginia Mr. Smiley was elected ruling elder in the Tomlinson's Run Church. They are buried in the old United Presbyterian cemetery at Burgettstown. They left no descendants.

JANE HILLIS STEWART

the second daughter of this couple, was born November 5, 1816. She was married September 28, 1843, to Henry Aten, who was born September 25, 1813. He was a son of Richard and Nancy Aten, old residents of Moon township. Their son Henry and his wife settled on the farm owned by his father, where they spent their entire lifetime. They were members of Sharon Presbyterian congregation, and Mr. Aten was a ruling elder. He died . . . , and his wife died January 5, 1895. To this union were born four children: John Sobeiski, Richard James, Henry Albert and Elizabeth Margaret.

HOME OF A. J. PURDY

JOHN SOBEISKI ATEN

their oldest son, was born July 10, 1844, and was married June 28, 1876, to Eleanor E. Wilson. She was born May 17, 1852, and was a daughter of Thomas and Nancy Jane (Scott) Wilson, who lived near Stevenson's Mills, Moon township, and were from Scotch-Irish ancestry. To Mr. and Mrs. Aten were born the following named children: Harry Albert, born April 23, 1877, and died December 6, 1897; Jennie Agnes, born March 21, 1880; Charles McClelland, born January 9, 1884; Paul Mercer, born September 12, 1888, and John Eugene, born June 20, 1896. Mr. Aten was in poor health for a number of years and died May 19, 1909. The last four children named are all single and live with their mother on their farm in Findlay township. This is the farm formerly owned by Josiah W. Guy, and by his father Josiah. A part of the "Warsaw" tract. The Aten family are Presbyterians and members of the Valley Church.

RICHARD JAMES ATEN

was born in Allegheny County, October 24, 1846. Early in 1878 he left his native State and went to Montgomery township, Ashland County, Ohio, and settled on a farm his grandfather had acquired from the Government at $2.00 per acre. Here he spent the remainder of his days. He died January 26, 1902. He had married Anna Margaret Sill November 28, 1878. She was a resident of Ohio, was born July 5, 1857, and died August 15, 1893. They were faithful Presbyterians and good citizens in every respect.

They left two sons, Harry John and Albert Sobeiski. The latter was born October 29, 1888, was never married and died January 22, 1911.

Harry John was born July 20, 1883, and was married July 26, 1904, to Rella Lena McQuate, who was born July 28, 1884. To this couple the following children have been born: John James, June 9, 1905; Howard Albert, June 16, 1909, and Esther Elizabeth, January 23, 1913. They are Presbyterians and live on the farm formerly owned by his father.

HENRY ALBERT ATEN

was born October 18, 1848. On June 21, 1876, he married Olivia M. Stewart of Findlay township, a daughter of Joseph and Hannah (Glass) Stewart. They are residents of Moon township, and live on the farm formerly owned by his father. They, too, adhere to the Presbyterian faith, and are members of the Valley Church.

To this couple were born five children: Della J., born April 19, 1877; died November 9, 1885.

"A lovely being, scarcely formed or molded,
A rose with all its leaves yet folded." (Byron)

Joseph Howard Aten was born December 5, 1878, and was married June 15, 1905, to Alice May Fife of Bridgeville, Pa. They are residents of Coraopolis and are members of the Presbyterian Church. He is a civil engineer.

Henry Sidney Aten, was born October 28, 1880, and was married August 10, 1909, to Jennie Leech of South Dakota, where they now reside. He is a Presbyterian minister. To them have been born two children: John Stewart, January 5, 1911, and Mary Irene, August 20, 1912.

Mary Hannah Aten was born March 28, 1884, and was married June 20, 1912, to T. Hilliard King, formerly of Moon township. They now reside near Beaver Falls and are engaged in farming. They are United Presbyterians.

John Ernest Aten was born April 29, 1888. He was educated in the common schools, and at Washington and Jefferson College, and is now a student in the Western Reserve Medical College, Cleveland, Ohio.

JOHN M. STEWART

the third son of John and Elizabeth (Glass) Stewart, was born May 20, 1819, and was married May 1, 1845, to Margaret Armor, a daughter of William and Nancy Armor. She was born March 27, 1818. For a number of years this couple lived on the same farm with his brother James. Mrs. Stewart died May 31, 1856, leaving four children: William Armor, Levi J., Jennie M., and Agnes Margaret.

WILLIAM ARMOR STEWART

was born February 11, 1846, and died May 1, 1864. He and the writer of this history were school mates. We attended No. 5 of Findlay township in the old building which stood on a steep bank on the Stewart farm. A very intimate friendship sprang up between the two boys mentioned. We were always ready to defend each other against the pranks of others. At the age of eighteen he was stricken with that dread disease, diphtheria, which at that time was new, and the doctors were unable to cope with it. I recall a day when I visited him. He bore his affliction manfully, and spoke cheerfully of a day when he would be able to walk out with me. But the disease did its work quickly, and in a few days he was a corpse. The writer and three others of his own age lowered him to his last resting place.

"Oh death where is thy sting? Oh grave where is thy victory?" 1 Cor. 15:55.

LEVI J. STEWART

was born March 10, 1848, and was married to Allena G. Hays, October 12, 1876. She was born January 15, 1853. She was a woman of high Christian character, and an active member of the Valley Presbyterian Church, and was one of the first organists of that church. She died May 30, 1911. Four children blessed this union: Myrtle Edith, born February 26, 1878; John Hays, born August 15, 1883; Jay Vance, born February 8, 1886, and Emily Nickel, born February 9, 1889.

Myrtle Edith Stewart married Lawrence H. McMichael, December 28, 1905. To them one son, James Harold, was born June 24, 1907.

John Hays Stewart married Sara Knox Lester, August 19, 1908. To them a daughter, Margaret Grace, was born July 11, 1909.

Jay Vance Stewart and Emily Nickel Stewart are both single, and with their father they live on the old Hays homestead in Findlay township. The entire family are Presbyterians and identified with the Valley Church.

JENNIE M. STEWART

was born January 7, 1853. She was married October 5, 1881, to Thomas M. Nickel, a farmer of Beaver County. He was born October 30, 1849. To them the following named children were born: Margaret Birdella, July 13, 1882; Lola Ethel, May 14, 1884; Allena Gertrude, January 18, 1888; Maud Stewart and Mable Patterson, twins, born June 20, 1891. These children are all single, and live with their parents on their Beaver County farm. They are United Presbyterians and members of Tomlinson's Run Church.

AGNES MARGARET STEWART

was born December 21, 1855. She was married April 17, 1879, to John Moody, Jr., of Clinton, Pa. Soon after their marriage they moved to their farm in Washington County. To this union were born three children, as follows: Estella May, born February 6, 1880; John Stewart, born August 17, 1881, and Ralph Armor, born October 10, 1883. The daughter is a stenographer, and the sons are bookkeepers, and employed in Pittsburgh. They are all single and make their home with their parents in Crafton, Pa. They are United Presbyterians.

John M. Stewart was re-married September 1, 1857, to Sarah McBride, a resident of Findlay township. She was born November 12, 1828. To this union a son was born August 1, 1867. They named him George McBride. He died March 10, 1877, and the stone which marks his resting place bears the following epitaph.

"He is not dead, the child of our affection,
But gone into that school
Where he no longer needs our poor protection
But Christ himself doth rule."

John M. Stewart was a life-long Presbyterian, a staunch supporter of his church, a man of quiet disposition, and sterling qualities. He died suddenly on July 3, 1881, after having attended preaching services at the Valley Church. His second wife, Sarah McB. Stewart, spent the closing years of her life in Burgettstown, where she died November 29, 1902.

ELIZABETH STEWART

the youngest daughter of John and Elizabeth (Glass) Stewart, was born April 25, 1822, and was married to Thomas Armor, October 24, 1844. Mr. Armor was born March 2, 1811, in Hanover township, Beaver County.

His parents, William and Nancy Armor, were early settlers in that county, and experienced many of the hardships of frontier life. On one occasion he was obliged to carry his wife across Raccoon Creek on his back, to avoid capture by the Indians. In 1836 they moved to Findlay township. His son Thomas, with his wife Elizabeth, began housekeeping on a rented farm, but after the death of his father they moved to the farm which his father bought about the time he moved to Findlay township. To this couple three children were born, namely, James McClelland, Jane Elizabeth, and William Stewart.

JAMES McCLELLAND ARMOR

was born September 30, 1845. On November 13, 1879, he married Sadie A. Walker, daughter of John and Ann Walker. About this time a new house was built on another portion of the Armor farm where his parents resided until their death, and James M. and his wife took up their abode in the old house. To this union was born October 3, 1881, Anna Mary, who died July 7, 1882. The second, John Walker, was born September 4, 1882, and died December 23, 1895. Ida Elizabeth was born May 11, 1886, and is still living. Lulu Mattie was born June 7, 1889, and died September 1, 1890. Sadie Belle was born September 4, 1891. She with her sister Ida are single and reside in Burgettstown.

Sadie A. (Walker) Armor died in the 38th year of her age, and James M. Armor was remarried May 25, 1898, to Amanda E. McCullough of Frankfort Springs. To this union no children were born. Mr. Armor died December 15, 1905. This family were Presbyterians.

JANE ELIZABETH ARMOR

was born March 10, 1849, and was married November 4, 1875, to David McBride of Findlay township. To this union three children were born: Thomas Armor, Martha Eleanor and Maud Elizabeth.

Thomas Armor McBride was born October 9, 1876, and was married September 6, 1911, to Mary A. Purdy, a daughter of James and Elizabeth (Burns) Purdy. To them a son was born May 27, 1912, and died soon after.

Martha Eleanor McBride was born August 10, 1878, and was married February 14, 1907, to Walter W. Purdy, a son of James and Elizabeth (Burns) Purdy. To them three children have been born, namely David McBride, born July 3, 1908; James Lee, born October 28, 1909, and Olive Elizabeth, born July 10, 1911.

Maud Elizabeth McBride was born May 30, 1883, is still single and lives with her parents. David McBride, the father, and Thomas Armor, his son, live on the same farm, which is located near Potato Garden Run, and are among the successful farmers of Findlay township. They are United Presbyterians.

WILLIAM STEWART ARMOR

was born June 5, 1860 and was married September 17, 1885, to Nora McMichael, who was born in Robinson township, Allegheny County, on July 29, 1864. But before her marriage she, with her parents, moved to a farm in North Fayette township, near Santiago. To this union have been born five sons as follows: William McClelland, born August 22, 1886; John McMichael, born November 16, 1888; Thomas Howard, born September 7, 1894; Alva George, born July 19, 1901, and Harlan Ewing, born April 3, 1907.

These sons are all single and live with their parents on that portion of the farm where their grandparents, Thomas and Elizabeth (Stewart) Armor, died, the former on June 25, 1887, and the latter on June 28, 1890. They are Presbyterians and members of the Valley Church. Mr. W. Stewart Armor now owns the entire tract of land containing 170 acres, which his grandfather purchased in 1836 from Alexander McClelland. After the death of his brother James he purchased that portion which had been allotted to him, and on which is located the house in which his parents and grandparents lived. The accompanying cut is from a photo recently taken.

THE W. S. ARMOR HOUSE

With this ends the biographical history of John and Elizabeth (Glass) Stewart. And it is that branch of the Stewart family with which the people of Imperial and surrounding neighborhood are more familiar than any other. They were good citizens, well to do, and were always more or less identified with the affairs of the community. By referring to the history of the Valley Church it will be found that John Stewart and his son James were closely identified with it in its organization and for many years later. They were among the number who, June 1, 1840, signed a petition asking Presbytery to form the organization, and during the year, they with their wives, were admitted on certificate. And his sons and daughters, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, have in turn been identified with this church. James, the son, was elected elder early in life and served in that capacity until his death.

We will now turn to the oldest daughter of this pioneer couple.

JANE STEWART

was born June 19, 1782, and was one of the two children who made the journey over the mountains to Western Pennsylvania. She was married March 16, 1808, to Matthew McCoy, (and was married but one day later than her brother John). We have no data as to their whereabouts for more than 25 years after their marriage except the births of six children in the following order, which we gathered from the little book referred to on the first page. James Stewart McCoy, was born March 18, 1809. William, born March 19, 1811. Thomas, born May 13, 1812. Matthew, born April 4, 1815. John, born January 11, 1819, and Margaret J. born November 28, 1820. In 1834 they moved to a farm near Cadiz, Ohio, where they spent the remainder of their days. He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church.

James Stewart McCoy was married, but we have no history of them beyond the fact that his son Bentley McCoy and his daughter Margaret Jane (now Mrs. Hill McCleary) live near Crawfordsville, Iowa.

William McCoy has a son, Wm. H. H. McCoy, who lives near Muscatine, Iowa.

Matthew McCoy, Jr., was married to Harriet Crawfords and to them were born four daughters: Mary W., who died January 17, 1912. The second is Mrs. R. M. Coulter, Big Run, Pa., and Janette and Isabel, who are now living in Cadiz, Ohio. They still own the farm that belonged to their grandfather, and it has been in the McCoy name for 78 years. Matthew McCoy, Jr., spent his entire life on this farm, and died in 1889. The foregoing is but a brief history of this family, for our efforts to secure more, and better have failed.

ELEANOR STEWART

was the first child born to this pioneer couple after they came to Western Pennsylvania. Her birth occurred September 19, 1784. She was married October 5, 1813, to James Simpson. And were it not for that same little book referred to before we would be entirely "at sea" in regard to the early history of this family. But from it we learn that they had six children, named as follows: Jane, James, Isaac, Margaret, Hannah and John. The father died May 25, 1839. The statement has been handed down that he was a Presbyterian, and an elder in that denomination.

JANE SIMPSON

the first child of the above couple was born September 3, 1815, and was married February 12, 1833 to J. S. Russell. To them were born the following children: Ellen, Cynthia, Margaret, Ophelia, W. It is worthy of note that we have been able to record the names of W. Simpson Russell, his wife and nine children, and make mention of seven grandchildren without being obliged to record a single death.

"A hand divine shall lead you on,
Through all the blissful road,
Till to the sacred mount you rise,
And see your smiling God."

Mr. Russell is a Washington County farmer located near Bulger, on the Panhandle R. R., and has been a life-long Presbyterian. Since 1875 he has been a ruling elder in Raccoon congregation.

For many years they lived on a farm near Virsoix which, by the way, was part of the "Leeom" tract originally owned by her grandfather. But eventually the infirmities of age compelled them to give up farming, and they moved to Canonsburg where Mr. Lewis died December 20, 1910. Mrs. Lewis makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Cook, in Canonsburg. She is now 86 years old and is one of ten living grandchildren of the initial couple of this history.

WILLIAM H. GUY

Anna Margaret Guy

was born September 10, 1845, and was married February 23, 1869, to John Sylvester Burns, the writer of this history. He was born February 22, 1847, a son of John and Margaret (Stewart) Burns, residents of Findlay township. When seven years of age his father died and from that until he was 21 years of age he worked as a laborer on the farm where he was born. In the spring of 1872 he purchased this same farm and with his wife proceeded to make the money to pay for it. It is a part of a large tract originally called "Laencio" by patent of the Commonwealth. Through the recommendation of several influential men of the county the writer was made a member of the State Board of Agriculture in 1883, which position he filled for fifteen years. Soon after becoming a member of this Board he was placed on the list of lecturers for Farmers' Institutes, and for a number of years spent the winter months in this service, and has lectured in every county of the State, also some in Ohio and West Virginia. On account of a serious and permanent ailment he has largely abandoned this work as well as active farm labor. At present he is applying his bit of agricultural knowledge to a family garden and trying to adjust the differences of his fellow men through the office of justice of the peace. And we only regret that the past cannot be at our disposal once more and an opportunity afforded for a better effort. To this couple three children were born. The first, Anna Margaret, was born December 27, 1869. The third, John Sylvester, was born April 12, 1885. They both died on the day of their birth.

With angels to guard from every ill,
Or Jesus to fold in his arms of love.
Lord, WE humbly bow to Thy sov'reign will.

"They lived and passed away : this we know,
 And naught beside
 No record of their names is left to show
 How soon they died ;
 They did their work, and then passed away.
 An unknown band ;
 But we hope they live in endless day. in the Fair shining land

No glory clusters round their names on earth ;
 But in God's heaven
 Is kept a book of names of greatest worth,
 And there is given
 A place for all who did the Master's will,
 Though here unknown ;
 And there lost names shine forth in brightest rays
 Before the throne."

(Since writing the above the following eulogy has come to hand)

The Rev. Dr. John B. Stewart

By A. S. HUNTER

I loved and honored my uncle, the Rev. Dr. John B. Stewart. He was a great preacher and a great man. It is with pleasure that I undertake to prepare this brief sketch.

Dr. Stewart was a son of Richard and Mary Stewart and was born near Clinton, Allegheny County, Pa., May 7, 1825; he graduated at Washington and Jefferson College, 1848; he became an alumnus of the Western Theological Seminary in 1851; he was licensed by the Presbytery of Ohio in June of the same year and was ordained by the Presbytery of Wooster in 1854.

REV. JOHN B. STEWART, D. D.

her describing one of his first sermons on the text, "Take us the foxes, the little foxes that spoil the vines." I note with interest that he preached on this same text on the last day of his life, and it is with no surprise that I read that one of his hearers said that it was the best sermon that he had ever heard.

During his work in the ministry he served as pastor in the following pulpits: Fifth Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, Milwaukee, Wis., and in Davenport and in Des Moines, Iowa. These were all important pulpits to which he was called without effort on his part. I remember as a boy being greatly impressed by hearing him say that he had never solicited a call.

He was a most original, impressive and attractive preacher. The interest and admiration of the audience for the speaker continued and increased from the beginning to the end of his sermon.

When quite a lad, I remember hearing my mother speak of her clerical brother for whom she had a very great admiration. I distinctly remember

This summer at the General Assembly at Atlanta, I fell in with one of my uncle's old friends. In speaking of his attractiveness as a speaker, he said: "If Stewart preached in a vacant church it was not worth while for any one else to try."

Early in his ministry he married Nancy MacGregor, a woman of Scotch-Irish ancestry of the illustrious family of MacGregor. She had a good intellect and attractive personality and great charm of manner. She lived a serene, sweet, helpful life. She was an ideal minister's wife—loved and admired by all who knew her.

Dr. Stewart was a strong as well as an attractive man. He thought deeply, believed profoundly, and walked humbly with God.

The originality of his thought and the incisiveness of his style compelled attention and always left an impression for good. He was not only broad-minded, but what is perhaps a rarer virtue, he was always fair-minded. His quiet, sociable manner endeared him to all who knew him. He did much for his fellowmen and in the service of God. He, in short, lived a life that was worth while.

Mary Stewart

Thus ends the biographical and chronological history of the STEWART FAMILY of Western Pennsylvania so far as we have been able to collect. We are conscious of many omissions, and it would be marvelous if there should be no mistakes.

We all the while have been burdened with the thought of the negligence of people in preserving family records. What interesting reading a history of this kind would make for future generations if interpersed with pithy incidents of actual occurrence in the lives of their ancestors.

Again, we have been impressed with the frequent infusion of Scotch-Irish blood and the predomination of the Presbyterian faith, which almost invariably go together. Scores of the STEWART family have been identified with the Presbyterian Church, many of them elders and a number of them ministers.

And finally, after due credit for the valuable assistance of many others, our own humble effort is submitted to the friends and casual reader with the God speed of the writer.

On June 27, 1912, a reunion of the STEWART FAMILY was held on the Imperial Fair Grounds. The day was all that could be desired for a meeting of that kind. Two hundred people were in attendance and there were provisions galore and of a quality calculated to tickle the palate of the most fastidious. Many of the STEWART FAMILY met for the first time and it will be a memorable day for all who were present.

Dr. Alexander Stewart Hunter of Pittsburgh read a poem entitled, "The Stewart Clan," which is hereto appended. A synopsis of the foregoing history was read by the writer. With this closed the festivities of the occasion and all agreed that it had been a most enjoyable day.

THE STEWART CLAN

By A. S. HUNTER

And so you want the lyric man
To write about the Stewart Clan,
To climb up in the family tree,
And write in rhyme what he may see.
I know a little prosody,
I write a little verse,
But in my genealogy
I grade from bad to worse.
My sister knows the family tree
In branch and bark and wood,
But I could never clearly see Why in the world I should.
Why one's importance greatly grows
(A doughty man is he)
Because the family record shows
He is akin to me.
And still there's something, too, in blood,
A sort of friendly feeling,
And though we all are made of mud,
There still comes o'er us stealing
A kind of cheerful friendly glow,
A consciousness of kind
As soon as ever we may know
That we can surely find
For the man we meet, a single man
To whom we both may trace—
That if we try, we surely can
Both claim a common race.
Though he may be a sorry scrub
Without much pep or vim
If we can only truly dub
Him relative or kin
We somehow think he's not so bad —
At least he might be worse —
And though the sketch be rather sad
We welcome him of course.

The Stewarts are a goodly stock
Of old and noble line,
With character like solid rock—
I'm glad that line is mine.
From Scotch and Irish-men of old
Descend these gentle folk,
And they are apt as I've been told
To see or make a joke.
There are Stewarts with "w," Stuarts with "u,"
And I am nothing loth
To tell to all as now to you
That I descend from both.
Grandfather wrote a "w" in Grandmother used a "u"
The former way she thought a sin
And I believe so too.
Grandmother's line descends direct,
I value it a lot,
Not as my audience would suspect,
From Mary, Queen of Scot.
The "u" has always held its ground,
From "u" the "w" came.
It scarcely modifies the sound,
And faith, they are the same.
Hurrah, hurrah for all the Stewarts,
For we are all of kin,
Whether you spell it with a "u"
Or write a "w" in.

The Guys somehow are counted in
And other names a dozen.
I don't know how, but Mrs. Linn
I think's my second cousin.
I don't disguise, I like the Guys
Of every age and sex and size
Howe'er the kinship comes.
There's Daisy Guy, Daisy and I
Some years ago were chums,

She may resent what I have writ;
 Ages are not the same,
 But if they differ quite a bit
 Should I the fact proclaim?

The Lewises are also kin,
 The Johnstons, too, I guess,
 McCandlesses somehow come in.
 Now I again confess
 That I am short on family lore,
 And I have little doubt,
 As I have hinted once before,
 I'm sure to leave some out.
 Yes, there's another name, I think,
 And doubtless that's not all,
 Joined to the Stewarts by unknown link,
 The name of James McNall.

I now revert to earlier times,
 When first they came this way.
 I fain would sing in flowing rhymes,
 These Stewarts of earlier day.
 There was Richard Stewart, my mother's sire,
 And Thomas Stewart, his brother,
 And big John Stewart of this same shire,
 And possibly another.
 To come some generations down,
 Among those whom I like,
 Are Mattie with her new white gown
 And Amanda out the pike.
 But then the Stewarts that I know best,
 From Richard are descended,
 And though we're scattered east and west,
 Our friendship's never ended.
 There was Uncle Dick and Uncle John
 And Uncle James still lingers.
 May his pathway keep right on,
 Still cleared by angel fingers.

I long remember Uncle James,
I speak with veneration,
My reverence he justly claims,
Last of his generation.

Of the contemporary crew
Who are my nearest kin,
I think I know them through and through,
And I shall now begin
To try if I cannot recall
Some names and times and places.
Would I could picture to you all
My handsome cousins' faces.
There are two Mames, two Harrys too,
And Jim and Frank and Nan,
And John, whose name is nothing new
Among the Stewart clan.
The first Mame's in the Golden West,
Her books much fame have brought her,
But the Mamie I know best
Is Mamie, Richard's daughter.
Sweet Mamie with the golden hair,
Companion of my youth,
Who, just as good as she was fair,
Knew naught but simple truth.
John Stewart is sure to wealth amass,
Frank sells diamonds black,
The elder Harry deals in gas
And also has a knack
Of putting holes deep in the ground,
Through sand and stone and clay,
Where fountains of rich oil are found
In quantities that pay.
The younger Harry undertakes,
And Jim still tills the land,
Like John, he makes but few mistakes—
His cattle beat the band.

And now my queer rhyme
I shall finish in time,
We're glad we're together
This beautiful weather,
All nature's in tune
This beautiful June,
And we should be gay,
As I'm sure that we may,
With the Stewarts all around,
On benches or ground.
With good cheer everywhere,
Oh, what is so rare
When all nature's in tune,
As a bright day in June!
I'm glad that I came,
I'm sure you're the same,
May you all prosper well,
In all virtue excell,
And not work too hard,
Is the wish of your bard.
I say, long live my friends,
And so my rhyme ends.
